Plastic mesh also known as plastic flat screen and plastic breeding netting. It is made of high density polyethylene, polypropylene as raw material and added with other additives. It has the advantages of corrosion resistance, light weight, long service life, no poison and no taste.

The HDPE Plastic Plain Netting is a food grade plastic raw material(HDPE) which is heated and melted in an extruder, extruded through a screw, and enters an extra-rotary head with a small hole in the surface of the mold. The molten plastic flows through the pores of the die to form two molten filaments. Because the machine head rotates, the two strands of wire are joined together at one point, and then cooled and shaped into a net. It has the performances of wear-resisting .corrosion-resisting, fine toughness; it can instead of metal wire. It is mainly used for aquatic products, poultry breeding, sericulture, civil engineering, sapling protection, garden course protection, railways, highways, roadbed reinforcement, etc These HDPE plastic net is extruded to diamond and square plastic mesh.Diamond netting is the most common type of extruded plastic netting
