Product Description

Fiberglass Mesh Tape Stucco Concrete Reinforcement Fiber Glass Cloth

Fiberglass mesh fabric is a grid shaped flexible material made of fiberglass, mainly used in the field of construction and decoration, with strong tensile strength. This material can prevent wall cracking caused by thermal expansion and contraction by being attached below the wall coating, and also plays a role in preventing coating cracking in the reinforcement of exterior wall paint.

The commonly used width specification in the home decoration field is 1 meter, while the width specification is more commonly used in the application of building exterior walls. Its product features include easy transportation and outstanding tensile strength. During use, avoid manual contact and wear gloves to prevent fine fibers from causing damage to the hands.

Do not stick it under the wall coating to prevent wall cracking caused by thermal expansion and contraction.

Do not touch with your hands, wear rubber gloves when touching, as the fibers are very fine and can harm your hands.
